THINKING OUT LOUD

By H. M. L.

What the government does for the people, as a rule with mighty few exceptions, costs the people more than if done each individual for himself. For instance, our OPA is costing, probably more in taxes than it is saving consumers in prices. We say probably this is so, because none of our disinterested experts in mathemathics has taken the time to figure it out, so far as we are informed. But we do know that politicians in business cost tax payers tremendous sums as compared with moderate profits private business makes in its operations.

We believe most Americans are now gun shy of any plan that creates another government bureau either in California or under the federal government. This applies to various schemes legislatively considered for socialized medicine. Whether such a measure could be devised to leave the medical fraternity the same independence they now enjoy in the matter of fees and research, is a vital question but more important is the question every tax payer most face is whether or not he can add another load to the burden that already bows his back. It might be a very fine thing to guarantee every man jack, and all his family, medical services, hospital care, wooden legs and glass eyes when needed. But the cost would be appalling. Why not pay of some of the national debt, before loading up with new taxes?

However, in California, sensing the popular favor which proposed socialized medicine schemes, strongly backed by Governor Warren, has roused, the doctors are doing something about it. Some months ago we suggested in this column, that if the doctors did nqt offer some plan under which all citizens could for a reasonable sum do for themselves what politicians proposed to do for them, the doctors would presently find themselves marching down the road in regimental columns, with bureaucrats leading, bureaucrats alongside, and bureaucrats following, to see that ever medico kept in step and alignment.

Well, the doctors have moved and have taken firm ground. California physicians this week embark on a state wide campaign to beat compulsory health insurance by prescribing voluntary health insurance as a surer, safer and less costly remedy for the medical-economic ills of the body politic.

Said Dr. Philip K. Gilman, president of the California Medical Association. in announcing the campaign:

"This is a crusade to take the economic shock out of illness—and the medical profession is prepared to contribute heavily. both of its money and its energy, to see that it succeeds. If we do a good job for voluntary health insurance in California, and see to it that every person who needs prepaid medical and hospital care has it made available to him, we can forever banish the threat of compulsory health insurance. And we intend to do just that."

The first of a series of "Voluntary Health Insurance Weeks", which will extend into each of the 58 counties of California during this year and next, gets under way this week in Solano and Orange counties with city and county officials, civic leaders, county medical societies, insurance and fraternal leaders and representatives of California Physicians Service all participating. The following week starting April 29th, the campaign will jump to Santa Cruz County.

There will be separate, localized campaigns in 20 counties this year, Dr. Gilman said, with similar drives scheduled for the remaining 38 counties during 1947. The campaigns will be sparked by public mass meetings, newspaper and magazine advertising, and the use of radio and other educational media.

"Our objective", said Dr. John Cline, chairman of the C. M. A. Executive Committee "is to make every intelligent, provident person in California recognize this fundamental truth: There is nothing that government can do for you in the field of health insurance that you cannot do for yourselves—and do better and at less cost."

More than 3,000,000 California citizens already have protection against the financial shock of sudden accident or illness under the various plans of pre-paid medical and hospital care, it was announced, with the following enrollment in each of the major forms of coverage:

Health and Accident Insurance Plans	1,900,000
Hospital plans	230,000
Pre-paid medical care plans	871,000
TOTAL	3,001,000

SPECIAL BILL TO AID MINERS INTRODUCED

WASHINGTON, April 20.—A bill to authorize the issuance of special mining permits on power withdrawal lands within the national forests has been introduced by Rep. Clair Engle.

The measure in effect would overrule a recent opinion by the solicitor of the department of agriculture which put a stop to a long established practice by the forest service of issuing special use mining permits on public lands which had been withdrawn by the federal power commission.

"The solicitor's opinion although it may be technically correct is a serious blow to the development of placer and other types of mining," Engle declared.

"Much of the land cannot be utilized other than for mining purposes, and there is no reason why it should be permitted to go to waste. This is especially important in view of the number of returning veterans and others who depend on mining as their source of income and employment" he said.

TEACHERS FAVOR ELECTION OF ROY E. SIMPSON

California Teachers Association with 40,000 members has endorsed the candidacy of State Superintendent of Public Instruction Roy E. Simpson for election at the June 4 primaries, according to an announcement made today by Roy W. Cloud executive secretary. The action was taken in a resolution unanimously adopted by the California Council of Education representing the teaching profession of the state.

The resolution urged retention of Simpson so that the public schools of the state will continue to be administered by a man trained and experienced in public school leadership.

Simpson was appointed to the office last November after the death of Dr. Walter F. Dexter. At the time of his appointment he was superintendent of schools at South Pasadena having previously been superintendent at Santa Cruz.

BRITISH LOAN TO BOLSTER U. S. ECONOMY

Among muddied emotions stirred by the backwash of war is nne that "we have done enough for the British; now let's take care of our own."

This can be a dangerous threat to our national stability in the days ahead. There are complex economic inter relationships between the United States and Britain and that call for a maximum of factual analysis and a minimum of emotional conclusions.

The proposed $3,750,000,000 credit to Britain under consideration in congress is a case in point. Here is something that takes care of our own by lending a helping hand to the British.

Should this credit proposal fail to win congressional approval the American government's carefully formulated policies for world wide economic freedom and reconstruction would be nullified. Millions of workers in many lands would be made jobless, with commerce between nations strangled.

The credit to Britain would not be a "handout." A hard bargain was driven by the United States. The British in return for the loan, must free funds of the sterling bloc nations now frozen in London, and let those countries buy from the United States .The British must act to remove trade barriers, import quotas, empire preference, monetary controls and discrimination that are breaking the world into blobs for disastrous economic warfare.

Breakup of the sterling area economic bloc, and restoration of the United States right of entry into free world markets, would mean many billions of dollars in new business for American factories and the farms, hence millions of jobs for displaced war workers.

An unbiased study of all the factors involved in the proposed credit to Britain will convince an alert citizenry that here we would truly be taking care of our own.

SKELETON FOUND MAN LONG DEAD

The skeleton of man who had hanged himself in a scrub oak tree a short distance from the junction of Shady Creek and the South Yuba River was found Friday by a prospector who notified Frank Reader who has a ranch on Shady Creek. Reader notified the sheriff's office.

According to Deputy Sheriff Carl Larsen and Coroner Alvah Hooper who recovered the remains the rope had long since rotted. The skeleton was on the ground. The dead man had worn a blue coat and brown hat. Coat and hat were found a short distance from where the skeleton lay. In the hat was a wallet and in the trousers a purse, both containing a total of $5.05. There was no clue to the identity of suicide.

Coroner Hooper believes the man hanged himself at least four years ago. Sheriff Tobiassen states the man may have been Pete Johnson who left the Coughlan ranch several years ago, after writing a note that he intended to commit suicide. He carried a shotgun and was never found. Or it may have been Otto Toepher an aged German living in a cabin not far from the scene of the hanging. who was jailed briefly on orders of the FBI in May 1942. He was released on his promise to register as an enemy elien in Sacramento and was never seen again. Toepher gave his age as 74 at the time of his arrest. These are the only two men who disappeared in recent years without leaving a clue to their whereabouts.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. (Harry) Davey and infant daughter. Linda Ann, arrived this morning from Washington D. C. for a visit with Davey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Davey of 202 Prospect Street. Davey is statistician for David Lawrence, nationally known editor of the United States News, and commentator of Washington, D. C.

PLANS MADE FOR CAMPOREE TO BEAT PRECEDENT

Final plans are going forward under the general direction of the camping and activities committee with H. J. Nile of Grass Valley as chairman for the council camporee at Lake Olympia on Saturday and Sunday June 15 and 16. Working closely with the committee are the commissioners and again cooperating will be the United States forestry service under the leadership of Guerdon Ellis.

It is expected that the attendance will exceed last year's which was an all time high and that nearly three hundred scouts from troops in Roseville, Lincoln, Penryn, Loomis, Auburn, Forest Hill, Colfax, Truckee, Downieville, Nevada City and Grass Valley will participate in this event all communities where scouting exists in the Tahoe area council.

The camporee is an opportunity for the scouts to demonstrate the effectiveness of the patrol and organization in relationship to camping, outdoor cooking, patrol organization, camping techniques and the scout spirit. Scouts are scheduled to register Saturday afternoon, during the 24 hour program there will be a mammoth campfire program on Saturday evening.

Parents, friends of scouting and the general public are cordially invited to visit the camporee which will give them an opportunity to see at first hand the outing in scouting. As a preliminary four large districts in the council are planning to hold district camporettes. The first of which is scheduled to take place for the Placer foothill district on Saturday and Sunday, April 27 and 28. This will attract some seven troops in this particular district.

Overnight and weekend camps are being held in preparation for these camporees. It has also been announced that the Tahoe area session at Camp Pahatsi is definitely scheduled to start July 21 and will continue for a two week period or until August. It is expected that attractive camp folders giving all details of the camp will be mailed to all registered scouts throughout the coucil during May.

MINE WORKERS DISCUSS LIFTING GOLD EMBARGO

The Mine Workers Protective League meeting Thursday evening for the purpose of discussing the proposal of the mine operators made April 13th at the San Francisco meeting that both operators and the league request on lifting of the ban on gold exports came to no devision with reference to sending delegates to Washington D. C.

There is now pending before the mine managers of the Empire Star and the Idaho Maryland Mines a demand by the Mine Workers Protective League for an increase of 18 1-2c per hour in wages. At Saturday's meeting in San Francisco it was proposed that mine owners and mine workers send a delegation to Washington to negotiate with the Secretary of the Treasury for a permit to sell gold in foreign markets.

At present the mines must sell their gold to the U. S. government at $35 an ounce when as a matter of fact, foreign markets for gold offer all the way from $34 to $108 an ounce.

Ed Jones, secretary of the Mine Workers Protective League, stated that no decision was reached regarding sending delegates to Washington. He said that league representatives expect soon to meet with the mine managers again.

FIGHTING MEN DESERVE LIVING WAGE

The congress is making it clear that the practice of drafting men for the armed forces in time of peace is not going to become a permanent policy in this country. On the other hand highly respected military men, including Generals Eisenhower and Stilwell, earnestly maintain that America's armed forces must be kept powerful and fully manned as an absolute essential to national safety.

Those two viewpoints appear irreconcilable, but only on the surface. The army doesn't care how it gets the required personnel so long as it is forthcoming. The congress which appears to interpret the will of most Americans in this respect seems to stick at the word "draft." It isn't an American word. The draft is acceptable in the emergency of war, just as a lot of other unpleasant surrenders of personal liberty are acceptable in war. But America is no longer at war. The problem, then is to assure an adequate military establishment which the army wants while preserving freedom of choice of the individual which the congress insists upon in the long run.

Well why shouldn't it be desirable—since it is certainly possible—to make military service so attractive to young men that the army could have its pick from volunteers? Why should the profession of private soldier entail sacrifice of time and money? Why should he be paid less than the dole issued in unemployment benefits to civilians?

To pose such questions is to answer them. If it is in the interest of the people of America to maintain a large armed force as a part of the nation's business then it should be run as a business. Those citizens expected to engage in it should be entitled to wages and opportunity for advancement comparable with those offered by industry generally. Men work as mechanics, clerks, carpenters and salesmen because the remuneration makes the effort worthwhile to them. Men whose responsibility is to guard the nation also should be worthy of their hire.

NOTE CREEPING PARALYSIS OF TAXATION

By Ralph H. Taylor

The recent ruling of the U. S. supreme court on federal estate taxation in California and the other seven community property states has set a precedent of double taxation which every property owner should recognize as a danger signal.

To understand the full import of this decision, it is well to look at the federal tax set up on community property prior to 1943 when the rewritten federal revenue act went into effect. Before 1943 the federal government levied no estate tax on community property on the death of the wife if the husband survived. If the husband died first the widow paid estates taxes only on half of the jointly owned property. And there was no second estate tax levy in the event the surviving spouse died within five years.

But now the federal estate tax is millions of property owners in community property if either husband or wife dies—and is levied a second time when the survivor dies. Double taxation plain and simple.

In light of justice and equity such a double property tax is indefensible. There is however no point to be gained in criticizing the action of the supreme court justices. They do not write laws they rule on their constitutionality after congress enactes them. This strange act of discriminatin was made when the federal revenue act was written.

Perhaps the reason why protest has not been loud and long among mllions of property owners in community propety states that—up to the present—only estates valued above $60,000 are subject to U. S. estate taxes. Nevertheless in view of the trend of taxation policies in this country through the last 10 or 15 years the "little fellow" the man who works a lietime to build up a modest estate of $10,000 or $15,000 for his dependents has real cause for apprehension.

Only a few years ago, the "little fellow" earning his $40 to $60 or $70 a week on a payroll or as a small businessman felt no personal concern over income taxes. He paid none at all or so little he didn't mind it. Only the high income earners the "big fellows" were hard hit. Yet in a remarkably brief span of years federal income taxation like a creeping paralysis has spread to eat heavily into every American family's take home pay.

That typifies the warning history of mounting taxes such as we are experiencing today. Usually new taxation devices are laid on at the top where the pickings are richest and easiest for the tax collector. Then they are extended downward through the medium and finally the small income brackets.

Already under California state law the exemption from inheritance taxes is only $24,000 for a wife, $12,000 for a minor child and $5000 for an adult son or daughter. If a man leaves an estate of $20,000 gross valuation the minimum executor's fee is $730 and is matched by another $70 for attorney fees—a total of nearly $1500 on an estate of $20.-000.

Add to federal and state taxation the factor of inflation and it becomes evident that prudent farmers should prepare financial safeguards for preservation of their farms intact. As inflation proceeds and values rise more and more family farms will become subject to federal estate taxation and the trend toward lower exemptions makes it essential that families have ready cash or tax emergencies. Otherwise entire families that have labored together to build up a farm estate may find it necessary to mortgage their property heavily or possible dispose of a substantial portion of it at forced sale to meet tax demands.

Probably the most practical form of protection is adequate insurance since few farm families are able to accumulate large reserves of cash. Even very wealthy men seldom have enough ready money to offset state and inheritance levies, and those with foresight usually carry heavy life insurance—not to increase their estates but to protect their heirs from force liquidation of assets at heavy loss.

Calida Mill Begins Season's Operations

The Calida Lumber Company of Brandy City, Sierra County, started operations at its sawmill on April 8. Numerous improvements were made in the mill during the winter and a production of 15 million feet is anticipated this year.

The company plans to handle its own logging this year. They have purchased a self propelling log loader of the shovel tpye. Timber falling and bucking has been in progress for some time and it is anticipated that the woods will be dry enough to log in a few days.

REMOTE CONTROL TO TEST SPEED OF NEW PLANE

A remotely controlled Lockheed P-80 is scheduled to be given a series of power dive tests at Muroc Army Air Field to prove the maximum speed at which the plane can be safely flown, headquarters air material command announced today.

"By using a pilotless P-80 remotely controlled from the cockpit of a mother P-80 plane and thus eliminating danger to a pilot the plane can be put through paces never before attempted." Major General B. W. Chidlew, deputy commanding general engineering AMC said.

"The tests will not prove the highest speed the P-80 con be flown, but the resultant information will be of use in the design of future high speed planes."

Booked for testing in May or June the P-80 are now being outfitted with the control equipment at the Bell Aircraft Corp., Niagra Falls.

A ground control unit located in a truck will also be used during the test. This unit will control landings and takeoffs and by means of a television set which will show the robot's instrument panel the ground engineer can infom the pilot of the mother ship on the exact technical operation of the robot.

Also in the ground control unit a telemetering device will register and record loads imposed on the plane's structure.

The series of tests will start with dives at an oblique angle building up to the final dive which will be absolutely perpendicular from an extremely high altitude.

Currently a similar radio control unit is being used in jet-propelled P-59s at Wright Field to instruct pilots in the technique of remote control operation.

Three long time residents of Nevada City Thursday discovered their cars had been stolen overnight. All left their keys in the ignition switch. The citizens are William V. Tamblyn a Buick sedan; U. S. N. Johnson, a Plymouth delivery truck and Charles Elliott, a Chrysler sedan.

By noon Thursday two of the cars had been found by Chief of Police Max Solaro. Tamblyn's car was found on Nihell street near Elliott's garage minus a tire and gasoline. Johnson's delivery truck was found in Pioneers Park lacking 20 10-gallon milk cans, two tires and the keys. The milk cans and one tire were discovered along the Banner Road.

Elliott's car is still missing and the police are looking for three teen age youngsters. State highway patrolmen believe the three are heading east.

SEAWELL MAKES INTIMATE STUDY ROAD NEEDS

ROSEVILLE, April 22 — State Senator Jerrold L. Seawell of Roseville carries into his candidacy as a member of the State Board of Equalization third district a knowledge of road and tax problems equalled by none in the area.

He is at present a member of the Collier Joint Legislative Fact Finding Committee on Highways Streets and Bridges, considered the most important interim committee established in years by the legislature. As such Seawell has made an intimate study of the road needs of every county in the third equalization district. As the board of equalization collects the gasoline tax, the truck tax and diesel tax then allocates this money to the counties and the state highway department for road construction and repair, Seawell is in an enviable position as far as knowledge of this subject is concerned.

"The highway problems of this district must be met courageously and intelligently" Seawell said today. "The entire state is sadly lacking in modern transportation facilities. Every district is attempting now and will be trying within the next 10 years to improve its highways, secondary roads and bridges.

"I feel that if I am elected to the board of equalization I can materially assist every county in my district to get its fair share of road money."

Seawell is also a member of the legislature budget committee which since 1941 has been primarily concerned with the cost of state government and the relation of taxes to that cost.

"Taxes will be readjusted in the next few years" Seawell said. "Those adjustments can't be made on a hit or miss basis. The data gathered by the legislative budget committee will be invaluable when offered to the entire legislature.

"I propose if elected to maintain a close connection with the legislature in this respect. The board of equalization I feel should help and advise the legislature to the fullest even though the two are separate and independent bodies."

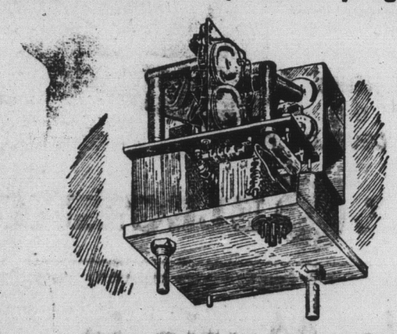
New vacuum tube equipment will speed long distance calls

Long distance expansion program in full swing



At dozens of places up and down the Pacific Coast we're going ahead with new vacuum tube equipment which boosts the number of telephone calls wires can carry.

This is just part of our unprecedented long distance expansion program now under way.

For the phenomenal development in this part of the country has resulted in a tremendously increased number of toll and long distance calls. (In 1945, for example, we handled nearly a million a day.) But we're working full speed ahead to install the additional facilities we need to provide a better and faster long distance service than ever before.
